DEDICATION

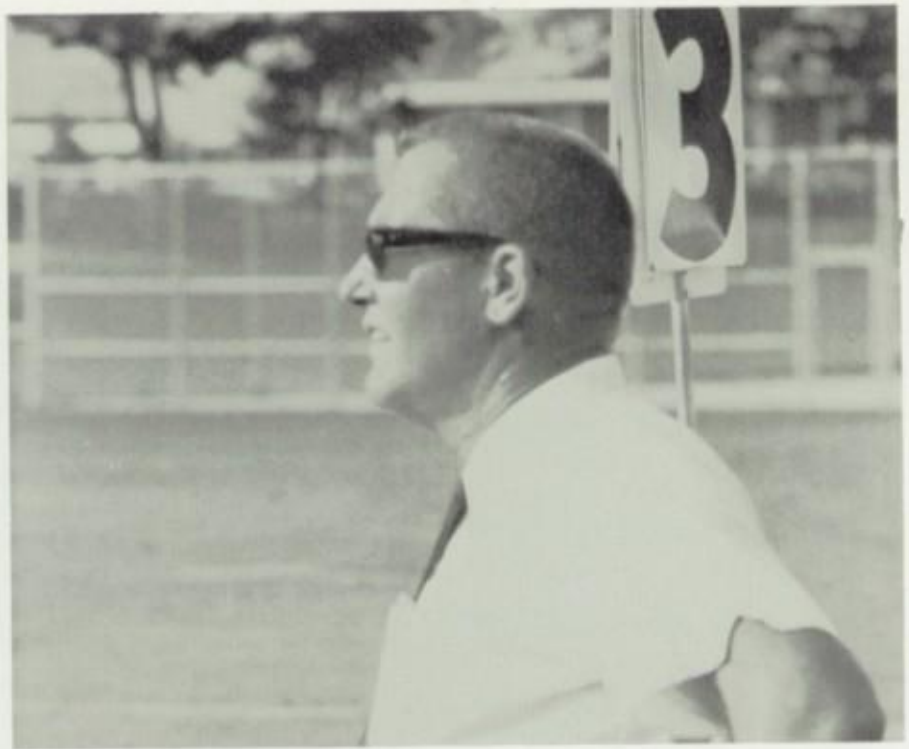

Life, hope, a promise of good things to come—all are embodied in a new, wonderfully eager administration under the leadership of Mr. Woolsey and Mr. Warner. A new atmosphere has been infused into the lifeblood of Casady, generating enthusiasm and inspiring devotion.

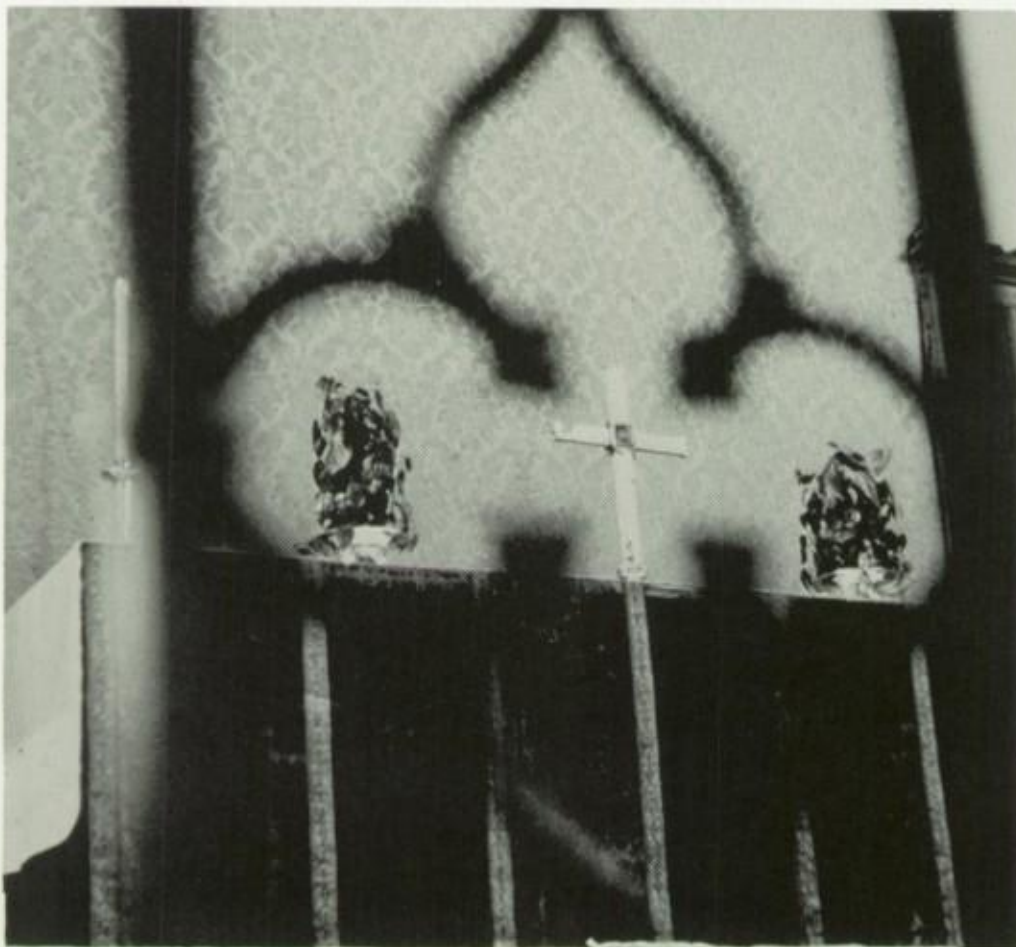

Imperceptibly present in the familiar classroom discussion and visibly displayed at a sports contest, it pulses alike in the greatest achievement and the most meager task. It echoes in the excited jubilation of a victory party, the hushed study of the library, the clatter of lunch, and the quiet reverence of chapel. It is a living influence, vital, energetic, dispelling lethargy and dissolving indifference.

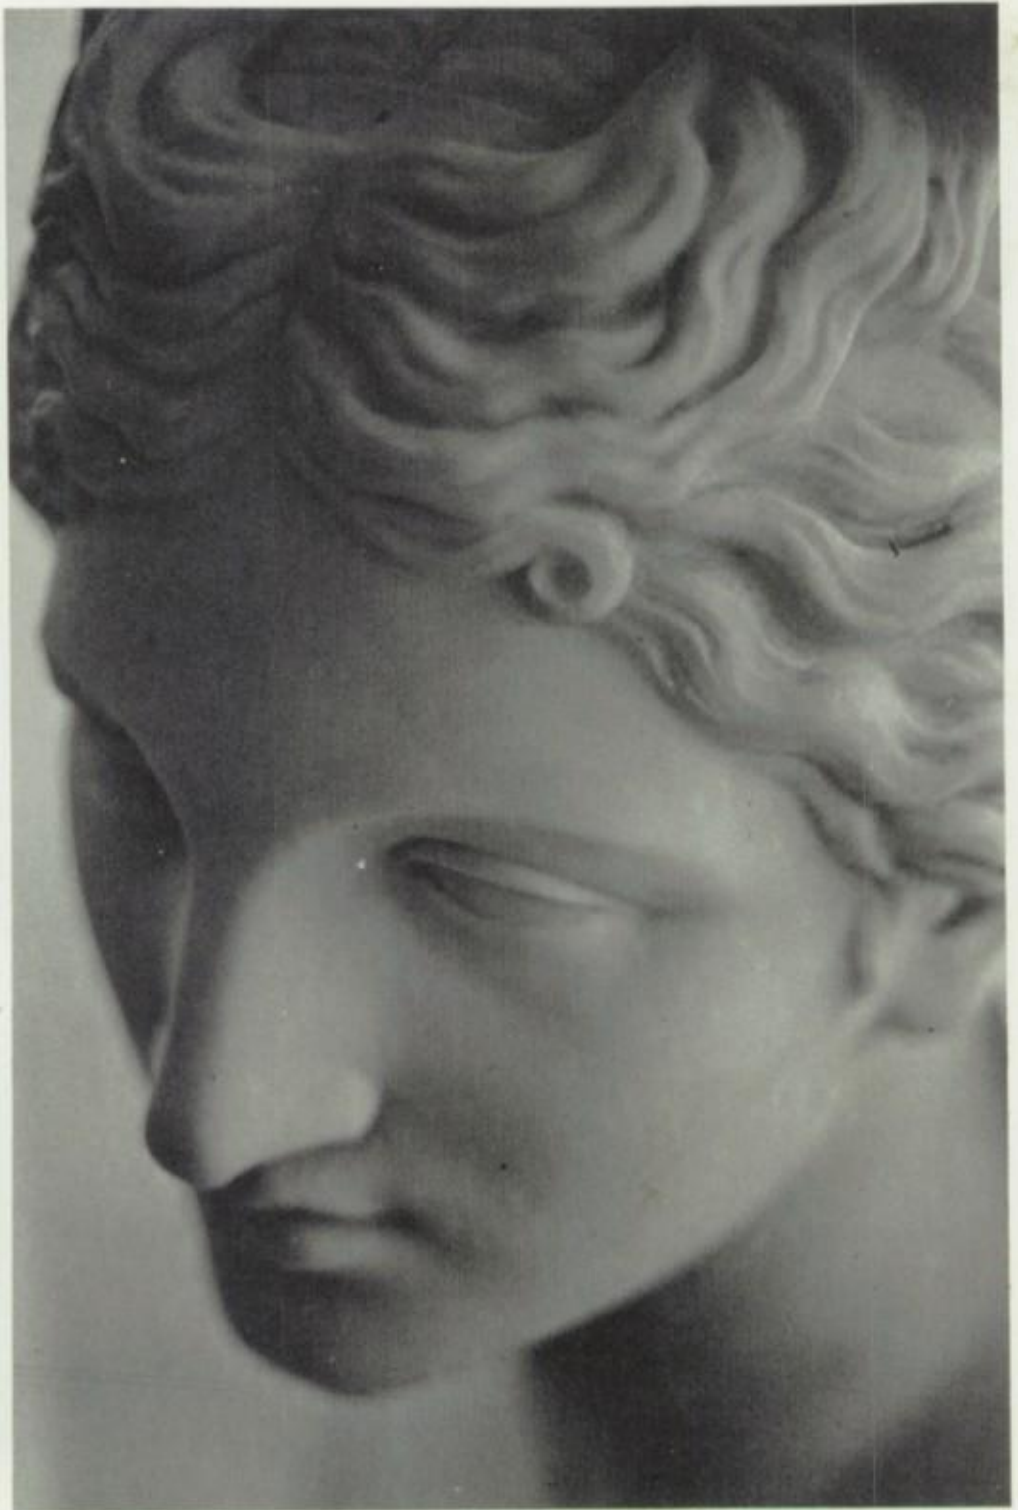

It is to this administration that we dedicate this yearbook, in anticipation of greater heights, the certainty of purer goals, and the inevitability of their fulfillment.

CASADY SCENES

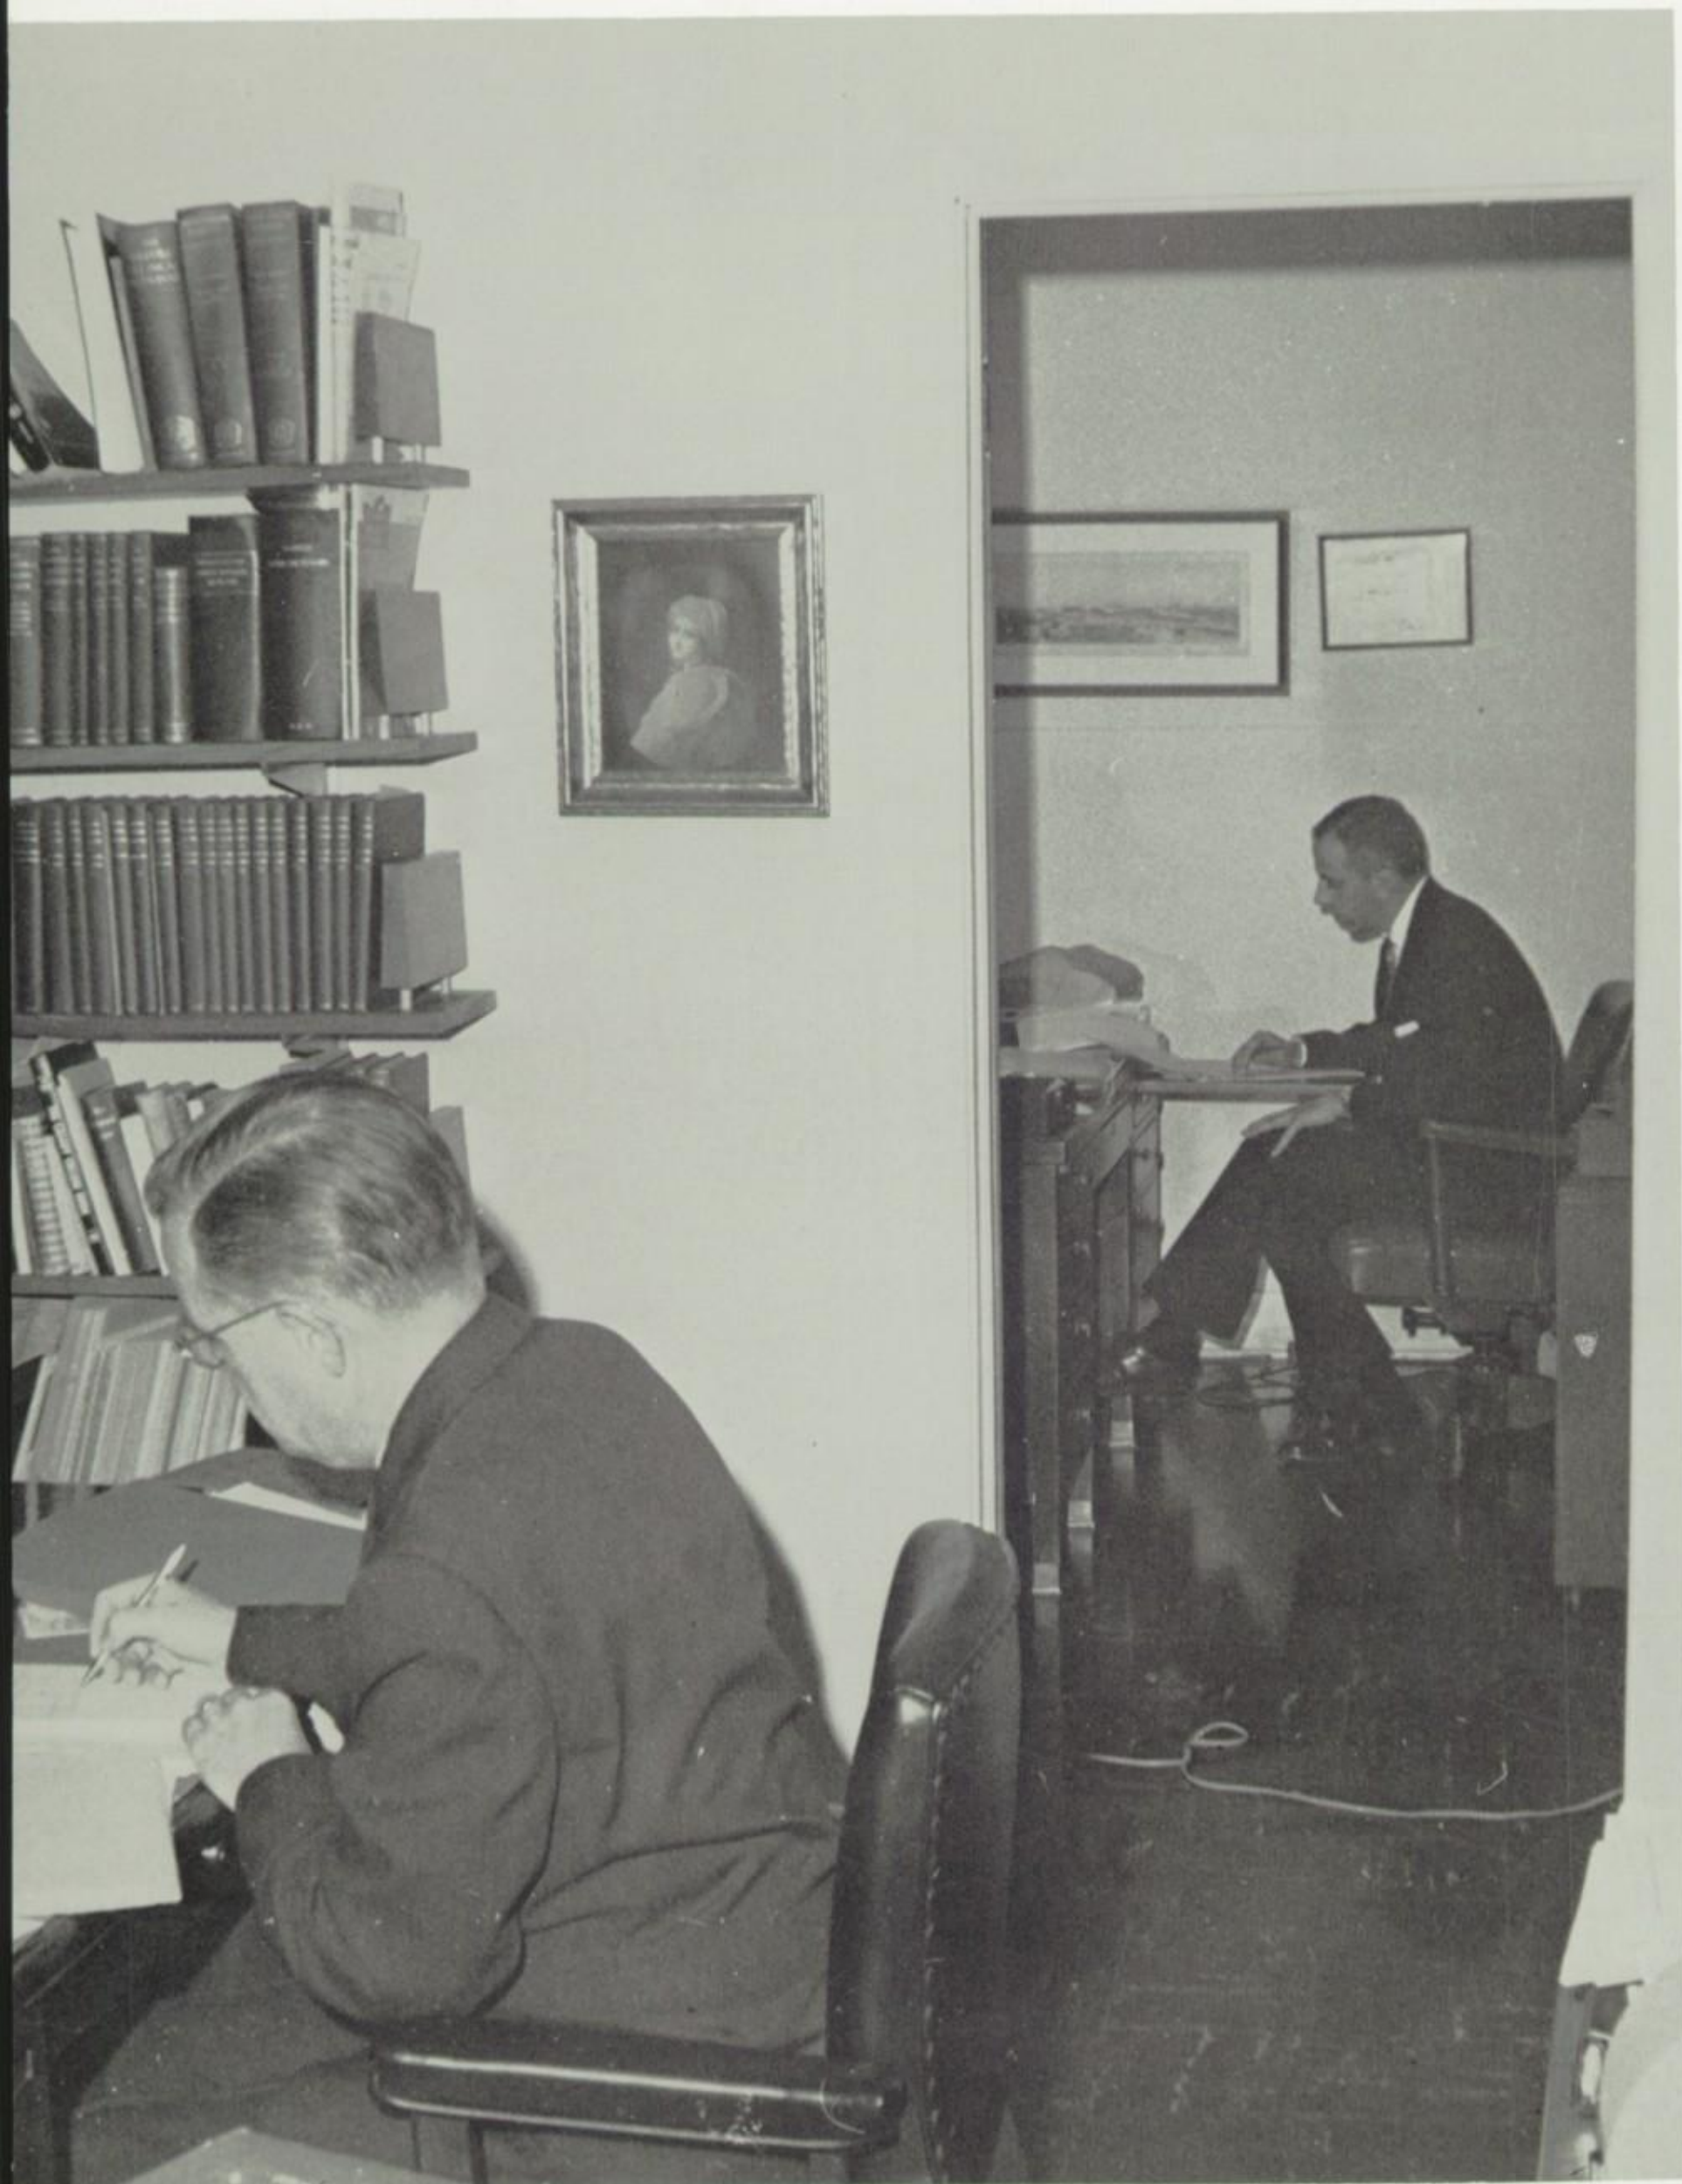

ADMINISTRATION

ROBERT WOOLSEY
HEADMASTER
Yale University, A.B., Ph.D.

Mr. Woolsey came to Casady School this year from The Taft School in Connecticut, where he was chairman of the faculty committee for the Upper Middle Class and taught Latin and Greek. In 1934, after graduating from Lake Forest Academy, he matriculated at Yale University, where he was granted a bachelor's degree in 1938. Thence he went immediately to Andover to begin his teaching career in the Classics. From 1943 until 1946 he served in the United States Air Force; after the war he returned to Yale as a teacher. While instructing, he also studied for his doctorate, which he received in 1950. Then, in 1952, he left Yale to further his career at Taft.

Casady School is indeed fortunate to have obtained as a leader such a Promethean, energetic man as Mr. Woolsey. He arrived at the School with innovation in his mind and action in his grasp. Immediately changes were evident: renovation of the School, a bolstering of her spirit, a new outlook as to her future. Mr. Woolsey believes that Casady can become the best preparatory school in this part of the country. He feels that this may be done through creating an "individualized school" with "emphasis in bringing out the potential of the individual in every area . . . academic, athletic, extra-curricular." And, in order that they may feel themselves integral in maintaining the esprit de corps of the School, in raising it to unbounded heights, he placed new responsibilities squarely on the shoulders of the students. Mr. Woolsey's vitality has been transmitted to the faculty in the classroom, to the players on the football field, to the crowd in the stands, even to the very electric atmosphere of the School, making it apparent that, under his guidance, Casady School must prepare for a new era of expansion and prosperity.

THE RT. REV. CHILTON POWELL

The role of the Church at Casady School is not limited to the morning chapel services or to the early morning celebration of Holy Communion. As a Church school, Casady is committed to the purpose of Christian teaching, an aspect of education which should pervade every phase of our school life. This necessitates the encouragement of Christian ethics and ideals in the classroom, on the athletic fields, and in extracurricular activities. To fulfill her obligation, Casady must offer every student a Christian atmosphere in which he may thrive and to which he may contribute.

However, Casady School is not a religious "hot-house." We take into account the best tradition of Judaism, of Greece, and of Rome, and all good that flows from them. We take into account history, science, arts, and other disciplines. We develop intellectual skills. We explore modern thought and pursue new discovery.

All this is held in a context of Christian love. In such an atmosphere the student develops an awareness of those around him. Concern for the welfare of others is as important a part of a Casady education as are academic courses. Our founders realized that learning and practical knowledge alone, without a feeling for goodness in the world, and in people, is of little use in developing a worthwhile life. As an instrument of Christian teaching, Casady School encourages her students to dedicate their lives to high ideals and robust faith. When the walls are built to the glory of God, the establishment will surely prosper.

BURRAGE WARNER
DIRECTOR OF THE UPPER DIVISION
Harvard University, A.B., M.Ed.
Oklahoma State University

Mr. Warner has displayed a genuine dedication to the growth and spirit of Casady School. This year marks his first year as Director of the Upper Division, and his deep interest in this job is obvious from his energetic attitude toward the school and its students.

The position of director is a job in itself, for it entails keeping every phase of the Upper Division functioning smoothly and properly. Nevertheless, Mr. Warner makes time to teach the senior mathematics course. In his jobs as director and teacher, Mr. Warner strives toward and thrives on enabling students to realize their capabilities and to work to display them to their greatest extent.

Some of Mr. Warner's more readily apparent characteristics are his sense of humor, his faith in each individual student, and his cheerful smile. As busy as Mr. Warner is, he is always willing to take the time to discuss all matters, large or small, with anybody who is concerned. Casady profits greatly from his solidity in leadership, his unfailing devotion, and his gentleness, which gains the confidence of all those who come into contact with him. Mr. Warner is highly respected by both faculty and students.

 Casady Little Theatre; 12
 Choir; 11
 Intramural Council; 10
 Gales; 9-12
 Treasurer; 12

Suzanne never seems to run out of energy, and her prowess has been felt both on the girls' sports field and in the classroom. As one of the senior class scholars, Suzanne has proven herself to be a competent and industrious person. Her mathematical ability and intelligence have made her an excellent Gales treasurer and executive editor for the Logos.

ANN VOORHEES McELDOWNEY

Student Council; 11
 Student Policy Committee; 12
Crier; 11
 Casady Little Theatre; 12
 Choir; 11
 Gales; 9-12
 Parliamentarian; 11
 President; 12
 Cheerleader; 10, 12
 Archery; 10, 11

Ann is always friendly and quietly industrious. She is sincere and responsible in all that she does. She has given her time and interest to both the Pep Club and the Student Council. Her generosity and kind nature have made her very well liked.

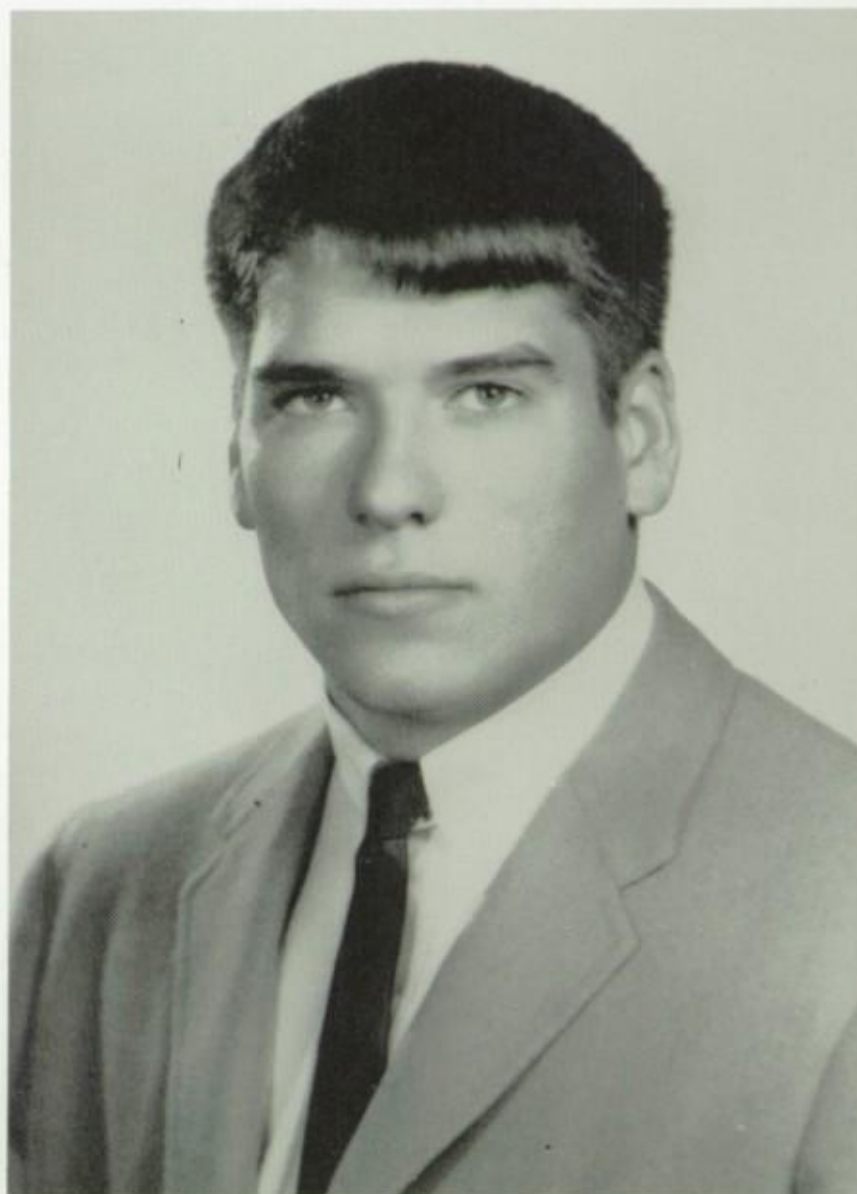

ANN JAMESON McWILLIAMS

National Merit Honorable Mention; 12
 Student Policy Committee; 12
Crier; 11
Twister; 12
 Editor
 Casady Little Theatre; 10-12
 Secretary; 11
 Vice-President; 12
 Choir; 11, 12
 Dance Committee; 12
 Gales; 9-12
 Hockey; 11

Ann is not outspoken in her opinions, but she has a great depth of feeling and quietly, consistently makes her presence felt. She is devoted to Casady with a great sincerity and will willingly work to better the school. Ann always thinks clearly before making a decision, and, because of this characteristic, her ideas are highly valued.

PRESTON J. MOORE, JR.

"C" Club; 11, 12
 Football; 11
 Track; 11

Pres has been at Casady for only two years, but during that time his influence has been strongly felt. He never hesitates to voice his opinions and to strive for what he believes. Both his intelligence and his athletic ability have made him a recognized member of the senior class.

JULIA ANN NYE

Student Council; 9
Casady Little Theatre; 12
Choir; 11, 12
Intramural Council; 12
Gales; 9-12
Softball; 11

Julie has developed as a person during her junior and senior years. She has a sincere interest in doing well in her school work and in contributing to Casady. Perhaps she has more school spirit than any other senior, for, no matter whether it is in Pep Club or class work, she works to the best of her ability because she cares.

SUE ELLEN ORBACH

Casady Little Theatre; 11, 12
Choir; 11, 12
Dance Committee; 12
Gales; 9-12
Archery; 10

Sue's most worthwhile characteristic is her ever-present willingness to work to her utmost, for the sake of doing her job well. She exerted energy and leadership in her work for the prom and contributed greatly to its success. Sue can be depended on, and this quality has made her an asset to the class.

RICHARD MULLINS PARKER

Choir; 11, 12
 "C" Club; 11, 12
 Football; 11
 Tri-Captain; 12
 Basketball; 11

Dick is one of the better athletes of the class and is even more successful because of his indefatigable team spirit. Beneath his happy-go-lucky nature is a serious person. He is learning the truly valuable and worthwhile things in life and promises to lead a successful and worthwhile life.

MARY LEE POTTER

Crier; 11
 Casady Little Theatre; 11, 12
 Treasurer; 12
 Choir; 11, 12
 Intramural Council; 11
 Gales; 9-12

Mary Lee is one who works consistently "behind the scenes" but without whom the senior class could not function. She is always ready to help a friend and can be trusted implicitly. She loves life and, because of her enthusiasm, is a joy to be with.

MARY JAYNE RAMSEY

Casady Little Theatre; 11, 12
Choir; 11, 12
Gales; 9-12
Cheerleader; 11, 12
Badminton; 10

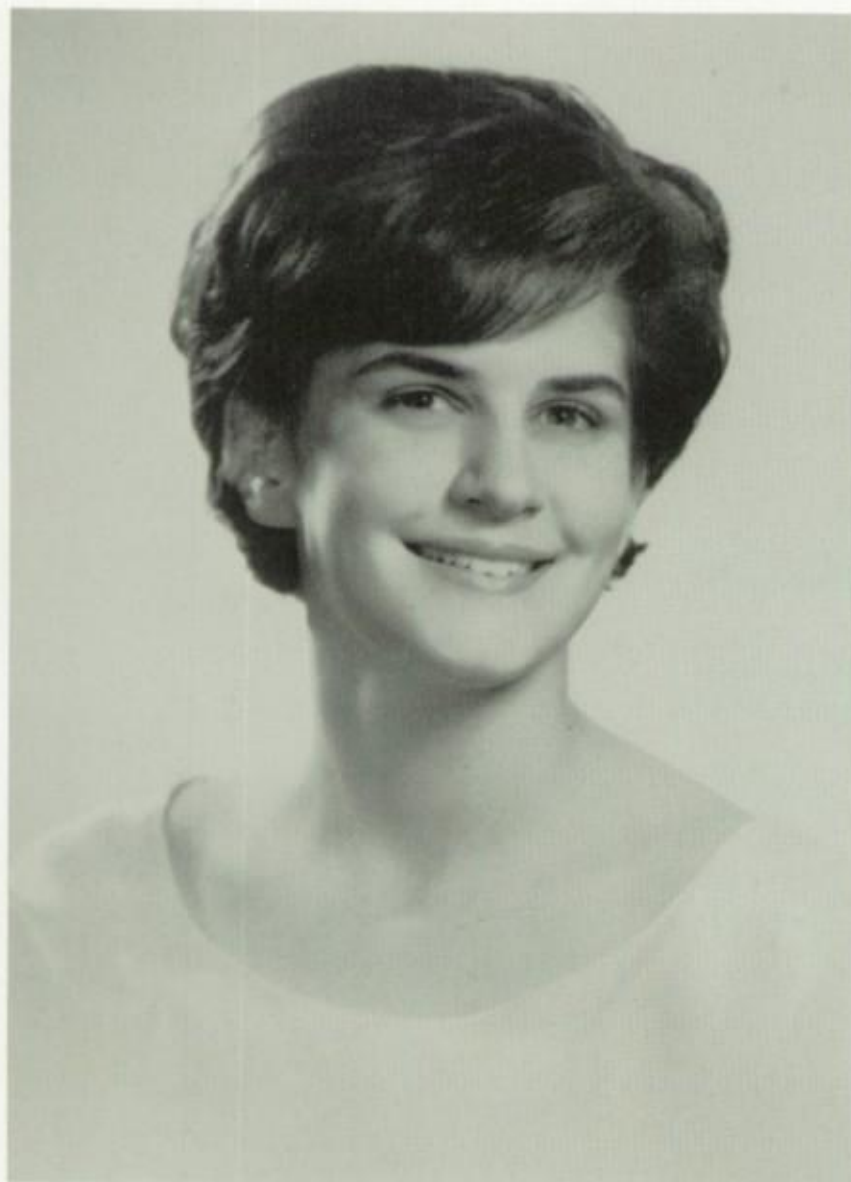

Janie has a freshness and natural look that, coupled with her smile, make people enjoy her presence. She received the Ena Cochran Award in the eighth grade because she is a kind person and never knowingly hurts anyone. She has a good attitude toward education, for she appreciates the opportunity to become a part of Casady and to be able to study for the sake of learning.

JACQUELYN CONNOR RONE

Crier; 11
Logos; 11, 12
Editor; 12
Casady Little Theatre; 12
Choir; 11, 12
Gales; 9-12
Historian; 12

Lyn has a definite artistic ability, and she has put this to good use by her work on the Crier and Logos. She is reserved and goes about her day unobtrusively; however, she is always able to think of others.

PAULA SCHONWALD

Crier; 11
 Casady Little Theatre; 11, 12
 Choir; 11, 12
 Gales; 9-12
 Secretary; 11
 Vice-President; 12

Underneath Paula's seemingly quiet exterior is a potential for leadership. This quality has been admirably brought forward through her excellent work as vice-president of the Gales. Paula's unassuming attitude helps to make her endeavors highly successful.

ANDREA LEAH SINGER

Crier; 11
 Casady Little Theatre; 11, 12
 Choir; 11
 Gales; 9-12
 Cheerleader; 11, 12

Andrea has an extremely complex personality. She appears to the world as one who is always laughing and enjoying herself. In reality, she is a serious person who wants very much to lead a good and successful life. She is always willing to give of herself to others and consistently goes out of her way to make people happy.

YPIE SIPMA

Choir; 12
Gales; 12

Ypie joined our class this year as an exchange student, and we are fortunate to know as nice a girl as she is. She accepts what is a completely different way of life for her with a sincere interest and enjoyment. She has already manifested a great amount of school spirit by her enthusiasm for Casady's athletic contests.

RAYBOURN HARMON SMISER, III

Choir; 11, 12
Dance Committee; 11, 12
"C" Club; 10-12
Basketball; 10, 11
Co-Captain; 12

Ray forms his own opinions and is not swayed by the actions of others. His natural ability in basketball makes him a real asset to our team. Ray's ready smile and engaging personality will win him many friends.

WILLIAM NEVILLE SMITH

Bill's devoted work for the welfare of Casady shows his conviction that there is some good in everything; he looks to find it in our school life and then tries to enlarge upon that good. Bill's fervent desire to contribute to Casady makes his judgment respected and his character greatly admired.

FRANK PORTER STONE

"C" Club; 10-12
 Football; 11
 Basketball; 11
 Most Improved Player; 11
 Track; 10, 11

Frank's unconstrained manner and friendly personality make him an enjoyable addition to any group. His capacity for getting along with people and his outstanding athletic ability verify Frank's being a contributing member of the senior class.

SUSAN ELIZABETH SWAN

Crier; 11
Choir; 12
Dance Committee; 11, 12
Gales; 9-12

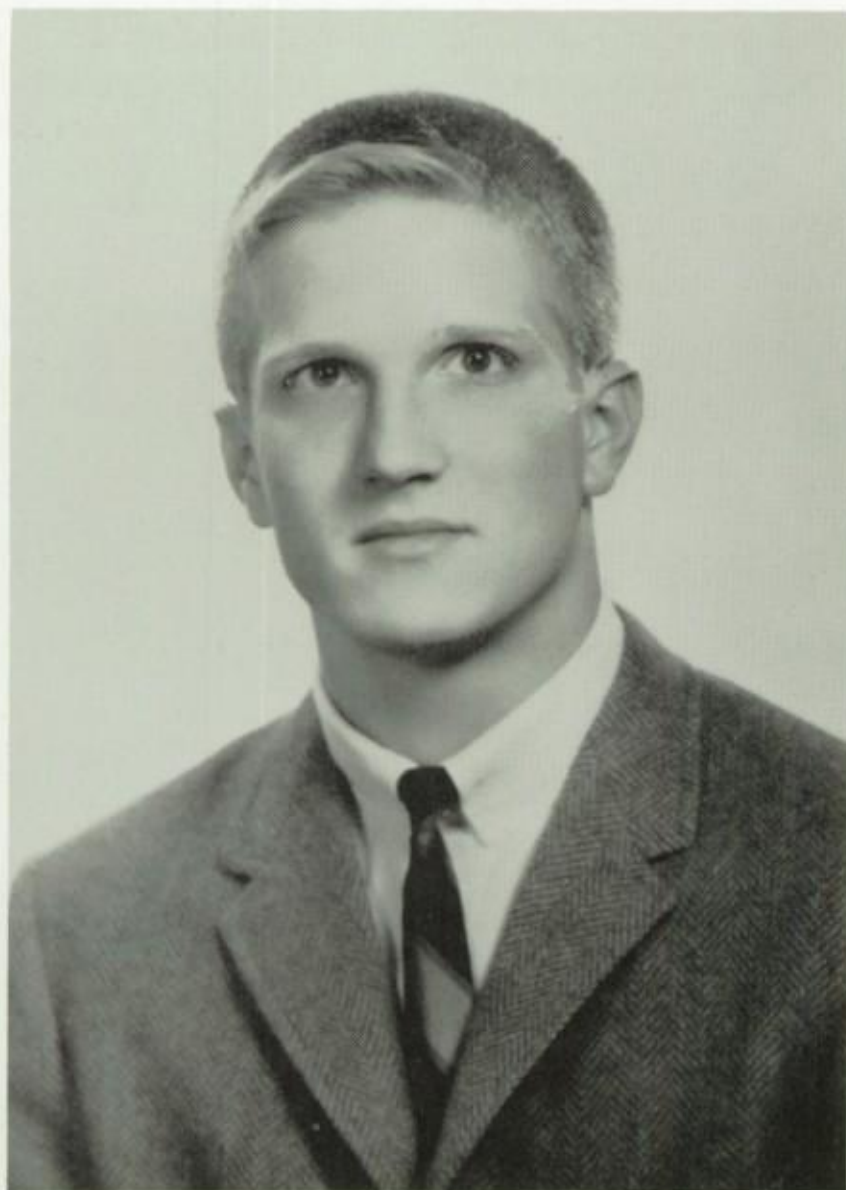

Susan possesses the gift of having a natural ability to do well in anything she attempts. She is quite good at science, math, and English. Susan had the privilege of traveling throughout Europe last summer; and she should be admired, for she is able to combine education and enjoyment successfully.

CECIL W. TRICE

"C" Club; 10-12
Baseball; 10, 11
All-Conference; 11

Cecil brightens the days at Casady. He is always smiling, and one can easily forget unhappiness by listening to his uninhibited remarks. He has a natural intelligence which can net him excellent results.

John has been interested in his life at Casady and has done his best to make worthwhile contributions. Both his friendly nature and his native intelligence are valuable characteristics. John's quiet and industrious nature has enabled him to obtain his goals.

"So? Did you ever win a beauty contest?"

"Now where'd I put his drop?"

"You just try it!"

"But I have a date with him tonight!"

"Mrs. Tuck in a Pep Club uniform?"

"Charles! You cut your hair!"

"Wait a minute while I let Steve out."

"Methought I heard a voice cry 'Sleep no more!' "

"Here, you take it. It dropped on the floor."

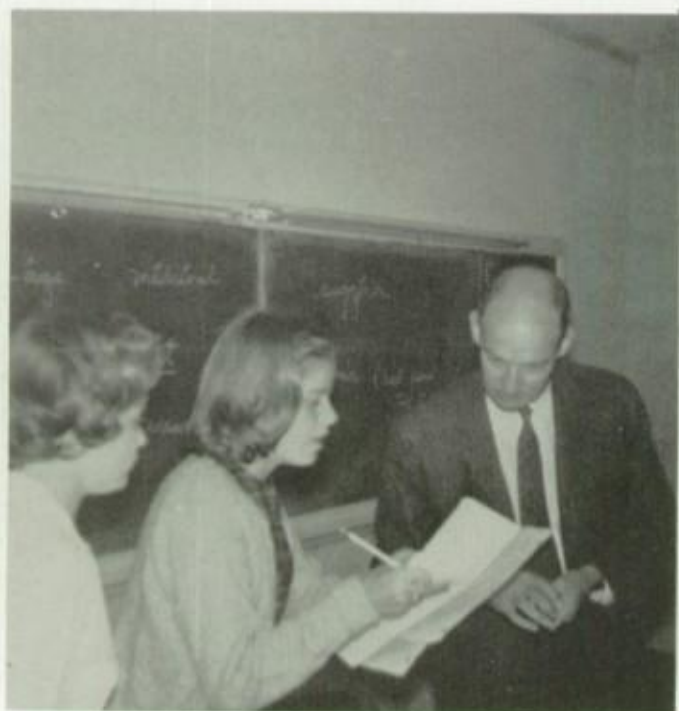

"Ain't I wonderful?"

"These crazy Americans!"

Sleepy-time gal

"Just sign here, and in four weeks you'll get 2,739 nickels."

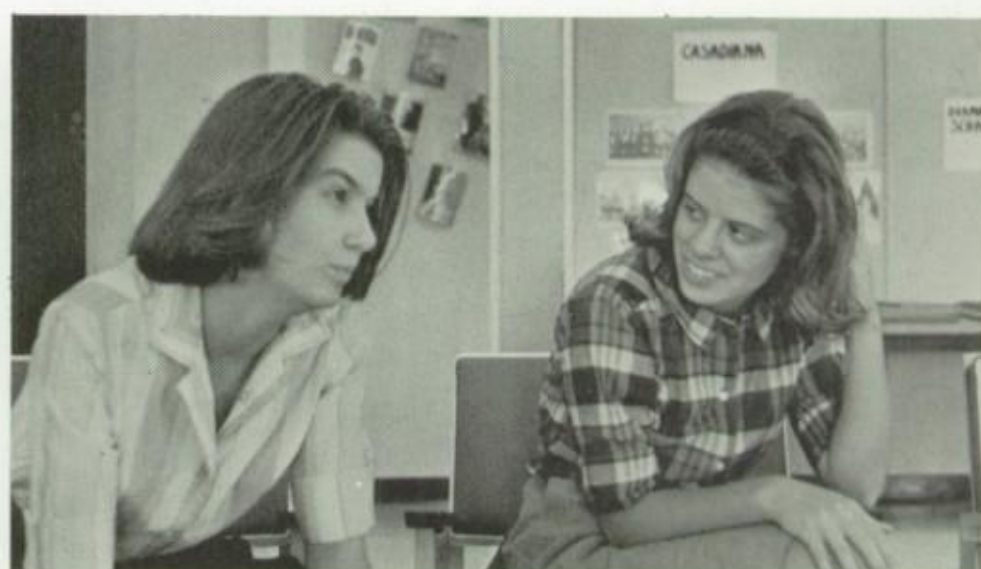

At home in the Cosa Nostra

"Naughty, naughty!"

"Got any dog biscuits?"

"That's what she thinks!"

"I musta been a beautiful baby."

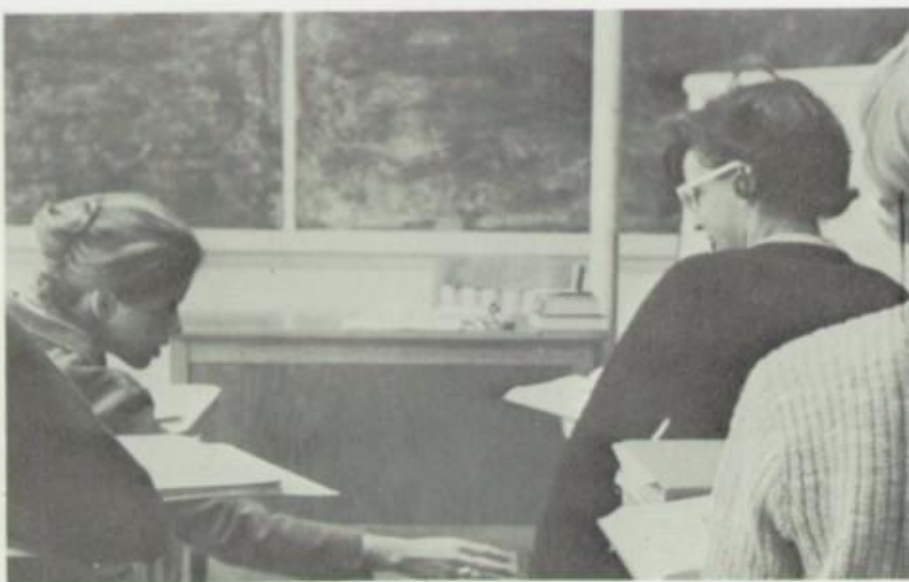

"But I wasn't speeding, Mr. Hiller."

"But, Pres—must we chain them to their desks?"

"I wanna go home."

"Gimme the note."

"Knit one, purl two; knit one, purl two."

REQUIEM FOR A SENIOR CLASS

O that memories could reenact themselves before our eyes and we could resurrect the fleeting humor of the past and preserve it for immortality! Wandering shades would emerge through the misty cloak of time, evoking by-gone scenes of this last hectic year, varied, myriad, flurried, but with occasional method in the madness. While Miss Ramsey was occupied with developing the muscles in her lower limbs, Miss Potter, more affectionately dubbed "Myrtle," was constantly making and breaking resolutions in between meetings of the Suburban Sociable. Miss Harrison eschewed the shack lest she encounter—inevitably—the diaphanous clouds of smoke issuing forth from that hallowed edifice. Mr. Gallo-way made quite a success for himself with the inspiring orations that gave him the title "Boy Orator of the Bedford Platte." Mr. France always seemed to be having "most main" difficulties with Mrs. Tuck, who insisted that he get at least a semi-annual haircut, while Miss Danstrom agreed solemnly, "It's so tacky!"

This senior class had its individualists, those willing to strike out on their own across trails unblazed. Thus, spurred by the quest for the unknown and taking his life in his hands, Mr. Cresswell forged his way across the girls' hockey field, leaving behind the indelible marks of his journey. Misses Bullard and Sipma, having had the courage to venture into the seniors' midst, soon surrendered to the onslaughts of the Casadahoos, Miss Sipma becoming more or less proficient in her use of the latest slang and Miss Bullard finally learning to put off until next week what she should do today. Miss Keltz, together with her faithful "No, no, Fletcher," also set out on her own, leaving the Little Theatre for a life on the stage of her ultimate desires. Looking for new empires to conquer, Miss McEldowney set up headquarters in Stillwater and appeared busy organizing branch units of the Gales. In an effort to appease her classmates, Miss Jopling breathlessly insisted upon her joie about attending Smith, the rendezvous of all those Yale boys, such as our own Russ Walker, who was going East to model a new line of ties.

There were entrepreneurs and celebrities among that vivid congregation. The Anthony family seemed to have a controlling interest in the class affairs, with Miss June and Messrs. Ross and Guy representing the clan. War whoops perpetually announced the arrival of our own Chief Thunderthud, Pres Moore, back from his latest scalping at the used car lot. Mr. Parker bore such a resemblance to the Beatles that he acquired and was forced to accept their title.

Our class mechanic and chemist, Mr. Bradley, was continually attempting to improve his "car" when not tutoring the more unfortunate chemistry students. Mr. Friedman kept up a running discussion of his astounding math discoveries all year, forcing Mr. Hiller to concede an occasional "Yes, Paul." Misses Fryer, Mayo, and Hudgins became chronic cinema-goers, disappearing on a jaunt to the "flicks" on their lunch hours. Miss Rone was the perfect hostess and always kept a fresh supply of tuna on hand for her guests. The philosopher of our class, Miss Singer, was always attempting to share her thought for the day with others and enjoyed mixed reception.

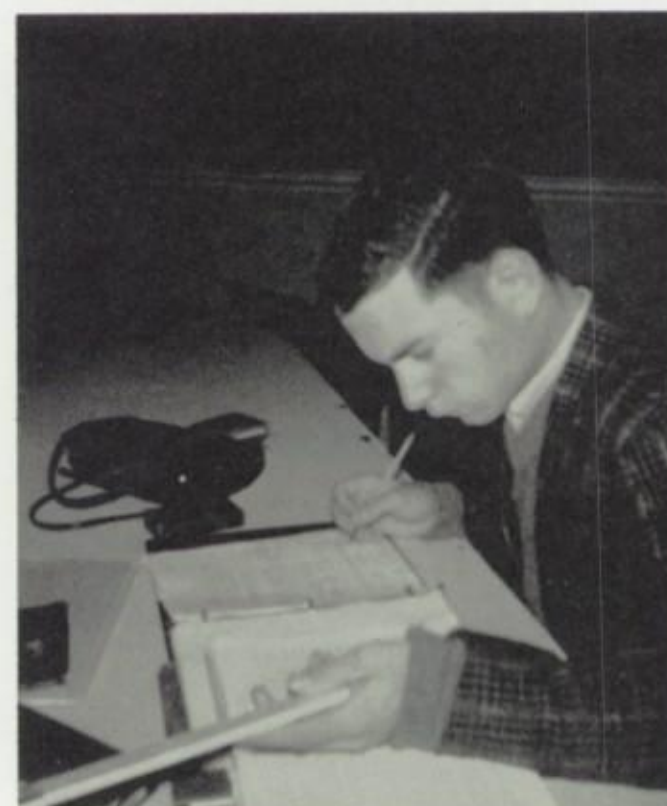

There were those with strange maladies, affinities, and such. Miss Orbach could do amazing tricks with her collarbone but kept insisting that the "carthage" was missing. While Miss Malloy was busy contracting an allergy to music, inexplicably commencing to gyrate at the slightest sound of pulsating drums, Miss London, with the aid of her fathomless gullibility, was constantly succumbing to practical jokes, her "Really?" echoing innocently over the campus every few minutes.

Miss McWilliams, stubbornly refusing to wear socks, caught pneumonia, promptly uttered an emphatic "This is ridiculous!" and started planning trips to Tucson to regain her health. Miss Schonwald developed an undying passion for feathered animals and was overcome with excitement and enthusiasm for her plans to start a bird sanctuary. Miss Nye, another animal lover, cared faithfully for the mice in the shack, grieving solemnly when one of the little souls was lost.

Mr. Smith, our white rabbit, was known for his "I'm late, I'm late, for a very important date; deadline, that is!" Mr. Stone seemed to be enthralled with his nurses, or perhaps the thought of television for six weeks was the main attraction for our bed-ridden invalid. Miss Jennings, perhaps better known for the elastic quality her legs acquire during an athletic event, was the first member of the class to place an entry in a sculpture exhibit and won first prize for the originality of her design.

The apple of his history teacher's eye, Mr. Warden was always eager to argue a point in question, while Miss Swan wondered bashfully, "Do I care?" His sideline comments never ebbing, Mr. Trice delighted everyone with his dejected cheerfulness. And above and beyond it all, apparently undaunted by his perpetual cold, Mr. Smiser worked diligently toward his Master's in Pizza eating.

These are the specters that haunt the halls, the ghoulies and ghosties that go bump in the night. May they rest in peace!

JUNIORS

Perhaps one might say that the Junior Class is "one to watch out for," having twice as many boys as girls and being a class with such a fun-loving personality. This class, however, does not radiate simply a feeling of fun but also a feeling of inquisitiveness. With the class having such enthusiastic spirit, they do not stop with a simple answer but are sure to delve into a matter from many points of view. There is about the Junior Class an aura of humor and friendliness. One does not face this class of fifty students without finding a mass of smiling faces and readiness to have fun and enjoy life. The Junior Class is talented in all fields of activities: sports, drama, newspaper, and Pep Club. The Junior Class is a tribute to itself and will undoubtedly progress as favorably in the future as it has in the past, for the members of the Junior Class are alert and clever and have the assurance of achievement.

SOPHOMORES

Having been at Casady only two years, the Sophomore Class has achieved a very special charm of its own. There can be no doubt as to the sophomores' enthusiasm and intelligence. The sophomores are quick to answer in school work and activities. In whatever they do, there is charming naïveté. When asked a question, the sophomores are sure to answer with an innocent air and wide-eyed expression; yet, under this innocence there exist definite knowledge and clever attributes. Regardless of how challenging a problem may be, the sophomores adjust to it with a smile and a humorous, yet intelligent, approach. The tenth grade has accomplished much in its short period at Casady in sports, pep club, dramatics club, and newspaper. The sophomores are never without surprising statements and happy spirits. Their charming, innocent vivacity has carried them quickly over rough ground into Casady life, and, with its potential, the Sophomore Class is one which will be remembered for its many contributions.

FRESHMEN

The school still vibrates slightly from the arrival of the Freshman Class. They seemed to adjust to Casady life without a quaver. They approached their new surroundings with a quick, vivacious spirit. They are not a timid class and therefore delved immediately into the curriculum with much spirit and force. Their spirit in all extracurricular activities has been forceful. The freshmen know their attributes and are confident of their accomplishment. Yet, with this self-confidence and forcefulness, the freshmen have a certain air of being on the brink of life. They delve into work and activities with a definite progressive spirit which will, in a short time, move into the field of experience. The ninth grade is confident and spirited, and, with these qualities, the freshmen will be a class of leaders not easily forgotten.

The Casady Student Council, led by Morris Galloway, president; Lee Maril, vice-president; Mike Nagle, secretary; and Kay Galloway, treasurer, had a busy year, which was filled with many new projects as well as the annual activities of the Student Council.

Two council representatives from each grade were elected in September and January. Again the Student Council sponsored our Korean war orphan, Yui Tak Ming. Other community projects in which the Student Council participated were the "Toys for Tots" campaign in December, the United Fund, and the Inter-City Council meeting.

USED BOOK STORE: Mark Harris, Bob Anthony.

Academic interest was fostered by the innovation of the Book Fair, which in its first year cleared over $1,000, and by the repetition of the Casady Bowl, an inter-class quick recall contest, both of which were held in February. Student government was strengthened by several amendments to the Student Council constitution and a clarification of election procedure.

STUDENT STORE: Steve Sturgeon, Tim Bradley.

This year Mr. Woolsey established the Student Policy Committee, which consists of the president of the Student Council and eight seniors elected by their class. The committee, which is an advisory group and does not take direct action, meets semi-monthly to discuss problems faced by the administration concerning relationships with the student body throughout the entire school. Mr. Woolsey felt that the four divisions of the school tended to be isolated from one another, and he formed the committee as a partial solution to the problem of creating a feeling of unity between the Upper, Middle, Lower, and Primary Divisions. The ultimate goal of the committee, which acts as a means of communication between the headmaster's office and the student body, is to establish the feeling that Casady is one school working towards common objectives and to make the administration aware of students' views on problems facing the school.

This year the Crier staff worked enthusiastically to keep the standards of the newspaper high and to encourage new ideas and participation from all people affiliated with Casady School. The chief aim of the staff, with Dianne Harden as editor-in-chief and Mrs. John J. Coates, Jr., as faculty advisor, was to unite the four divisions of Casady by including articles about and by students in the Middle, Lower, and Primary Divisions. They added two new features, trustee profiles and Dragons and Windmills, and senior synopses were discontinued. The staff boasts an impressive amount of advertising, subscriptions, student art work, and public interest articles, such as personal interviews with college representatives.

TWISTER

Bill Smith, Ann McWilliams, Russ Walker, Pam Harrison, Ross Anthony.

This year's Twister is the largest in history. The editors, Pam Harrison, Ann McWilliams, and Bill Smith, planned and organized the entire yearbook. Ann, the lay-out editor, was responsible for coordinating the material of the other two editors and organizing the make-up of the yearbook. Pam, the photography editor, had the job of scheduling, organizing, and developing the pictures. Bill, the literary editor, was responsible for assigning all the articles and also for proofreading and verifying them. Twister business managers were Ross Anthony and Russ Walker, whose job it was to see that all advertising was sold by the deadline and to see that all yearbooks were sold by publishing time.

We are very grateful for the assistance of photographers Bob Howard, Bob Savage, and Ron Cook, who, although not seniors, contributed greatly to the success of this senior project.

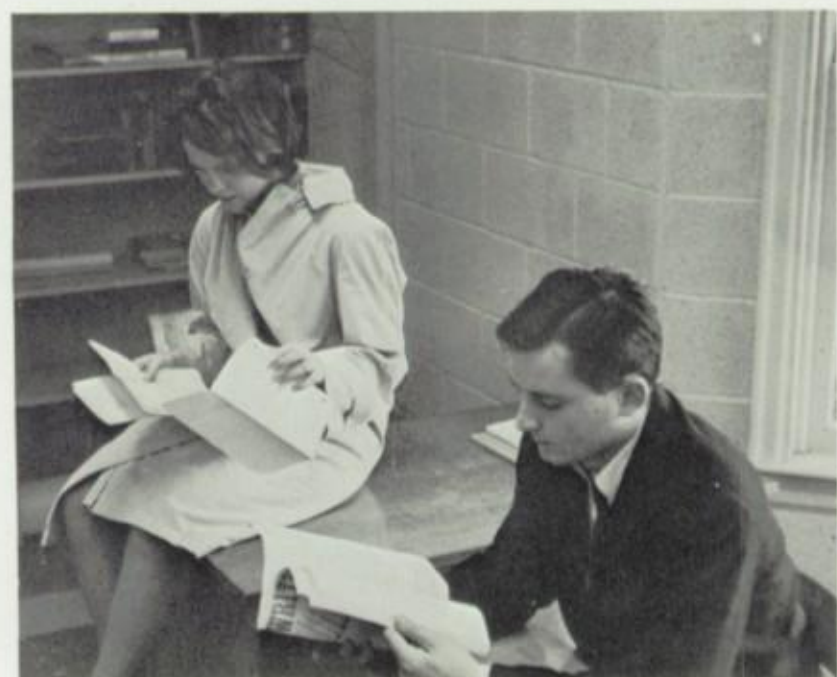

Mr. Wright, Beth Jopling, Suzanne Mayo, Lyn Rone, Mr. McCartney. NOT PICTURED: Charles France.

The students of Casady have been able to display their creative ability in the literary magazine, the Logos, for the sixth consecutive year. In the Logos, the students are able to express themselves not only in the literary field but also in the fields of art and photography.

This year, literary editor Beth Jopling, art editor Lyn Rone, and executive editor Suzanne Mayo planned to make the Logos outstanding and important to Casady as a whole. In the Logos poetry and short stories are featured with illustrations to fit and intensify their moods. Especially noteworthy literature and art are presented in the Logos.

The Logos is an annual magazine again for the first time in two years. Funds for this magazine come from subscriptions and from the Crier. Charles France is business manager of the literary magazine, and Mr. Wright and Mr. McCartney serve as faculty advisors.

There is no doubt that the Logos is a most vital part of the school, for it offers each student the opportunity to present his individual creative talent which could not be shown through any other medium at Casady.

LITTLE THEATRE

This year the dramatics club has had a rise in enthusiasm. Interest among the lower grades and non-members has helped boost the spirit of the club itself. There was great response to the first play, Mrs. McThing, a charming fantasy that involves a witch and her hex on Mrs. Larue and her son. Much talent was exhibited by those who tried out for the play, and many people from the lower as well as the upper grades were responsible for its success. Particularly satisfying are the talent and interest the lower grades have shown. Mrs. McThing was directed by Mr. Walker and Joan Bulard. The dramatics club chose for its second play Anastasia, which was directed by Mr. Gill.

Officers this year are Leslie Keltz, president; Ann McWilliams, vice-president; Trisha Botkin, secretary; Mary Lee Potter, treasurer; and Judy Cheek, historian. Serving on the Executive Committee are Paula Schonwald, in charge of programs; Pam Danstrom, business; Sue Orbach, publicity; Judy Hudgins, properties; Pam Harrison, make-up; Peg Malloy, wardrobe; and John Riggs, stage manager.

DEBATE CLUB

The Debate Club, one of Casady's newest organizations, was begun this year as a result of a faculty suggestion. Mr. Wright and Father Barnes serve in the capacity of faculty sponsors, and Bill Smith is the student advisor. The goal of the club is not only proficiency in the art of debate but also learning to express oneself with clarity and precision. In accomplishing these goals, club members also learn to set forth intelligent arguments. Open to all members of the Upper Division, the Debate Club follows regular high school procedure and hopes to participate in city competition.

ALTAR GUILD

The Altar Guild is composed of Casady mothers and students. The girls have a training program concerning the care and handling of the linens which are used in the Holy Communion service. Once a week every girl helps with the Communion service. The Altar Guild has monthly talks by Father Barnes which concern the traditions of the Episcopal Church and which compare them with those of other churches.

FIRST ROW: Ypie Sipma, Joan Bullard, Rosalie King, Suzanne Tucker, Leslie McCollum, Susan Fryer, Trisha Botkin. SECOND ROW: Mrs. Frederick Putnam, Mrs. Peter Hoffman, Mrs. Richard Riggs. NOT PICTURED: Angie Bell, Mrs. Bennett H. Barnes, Mrs. Samuel Fryer, Mrs. Walter Hoskin, Mrs. A. C. Lisle.

CHOIR AND CHAPEL

Senior Choir

Junior Choir

The spiritual life of Casady School is shown every morning through the chapel service. Guided by Rev. Walter E. Hoskin and Rev. Bennett H. Barnes, each student is given the opportunity to begin his school day with a calm attitude toward the work ahead.

The services have been varied and inspiring to the student body. Mr. Warner and Mr. Woolsey are now two regular members of the service, but at times there is a guest or student speaker. The service draws the student body together at the beginning of the day.

Under the leadership of Mr. Sloan and Mr. Gill the members of the Senior Choir are selected from the upper two grades and the Junior Choir from the lower two grades. The choir members contribute to the reverent atmosphere in chapel every morning. This year the choir sang in chapel almost every fourth Friday and gave the annual Christmas service.

Senior Choir

John Warden, Bill Csizmadia.

Rev. Bennett H. Barnes, Rev. Walter E. Hoskin.

DANCE COMMITTEE

The Dance Committee this year consisted of seven seniors and two juniors, with Mrs. Porch as faculty sponsor. The Dance Committee, in addition to planning school parties, decorated for and publicized these dances.

The committee sponsored three dances, the New Year's Eve Dance, the Christmas Dance, and the Commencement Dance. The New Year's Eve Dance, held November 16, marked the end of the football season and the beginning of the soccer and basketball season. In contrast to the casual New Year's Eve Dance, the Christmas Dance and the Commencement Dance were formal. This year's dances were well attended and thoroughly enjoyed by the student body.

The Casady "C" Club is an athletic organization in the school for boys lettering in a major sport. These sports include football, basketball, baseball, soccer, track, and, upon certain additional requirements, golf and tennis. After going through a supervised initiation, the boys are entitled to wear a Casady letter jacket.

This year's administration has sought to make the "C" Club a worthy organization. Guy Anthony, president, Dick Parker, vice-president, and Russ Walker, secretary-treasurer, try to run things smoothly, while Warren Dunlevy holds down the position of sergeant-at-arms.

At the end of each school year, the "C" Club presents megaphone necklaces to the cheerleaders for their devotion and spirit, and gifts to the head coaches as a token appreciation for all the work which they have done during the school year.

INTRAMURAL COUNCIL

The function of the Intramural Council is to select the girls' All-Star and Alternate Teams. The Council consists of a chairman, an assistant chairman, and two members elected from each grade.

The Council selects members of All-Star teams on the basis of their sportsmanship, actual athletic ability, and ability to get along with other players. The Council members are responsible for attending all the class intramural games so that they will select the best players as All-Stars and Alternates. Chairman Pam Danstrom and assistant chairman Janet Alexander were able to guide the Council in a very good year under the direction of Mrs. Edwards.

BLAZERS

The girls who are most outstanding in sports are in the Blazers Club. These girls are selected on the basis of Intramural Council decisions.

In order to earn a blazer, a girl must earn thirty points in one year. An All-Star position is worth ten points, an Alternate position five points. After a girl receives her blazer and is a member of the club, she tries to earn a crest, which requires a total of thirty points in one year.

The members of the Blazers Club are chosen on the basis of their sportsmanship, school spirit, and general attitude. The chief function of the club is to act as hostess for visiting girls' teams. The Blazers Club promotes enthusiasm and more spirit in participation in girls' sports.

FIRST ROW: Kay Galloway, June Anthony, Jeanie Jennings. SECOND ROW: Linda London, Pam Harrison, Marni Hoffman, Mrs. Edwards.

GALES

This year was a busy one for the Gales. Several firsts were achieved as the Gales had the first Parents' Night in the history of the school on November 2 for the Lutheran football game. Also, the club began what is hoped will become custom by giving corsages to all visiting cheerleaders.

The Gales extended their service to the school by buying a permanent flower arrangement for the dining hall and by ushering at Convocation. In order to buy a gift for the school, a goal of $500 was set, which was raised by three bake sales and by selling concessions at the games. Several new committees were formed, among them Altar Guild and Planting Committee, both voluntary, and Tour and Reception Committees.

Attendance was higher at school athletic events as a result of selling season tickets to all the games to patrons and a reinstallation of the point system; spirit was kept up by caravans and bus trips to Cascia Hall, Dunjee, and St. Mark's.

SPORTS

FOOTBALL

VARSITY COACHES: Mr. Gibson, Mr. Brown, Mr. Sears, Mr. Bullard.

The Casady football team of 1963 achieved a formidable record of seven wins and two losses, giving Casady one of its best seasons in several years. Outweighed by every opponent, the Cyclones won every home game and most of their away games through hard work and true determination to succeed. After spirited scoring drives in the final minutes of both games, Casady beat McGuinness and also St. John's, who tied for the Southwestern Preparatory Conference title. The Cyclones also demonstrated an extremely strong defensive play in nearly every game, insuring them victories not only over St. John's and McGuinness but also over Cascia Hall, St. Stephen's, and Dunjee.

Casady owes much credit for its victories to head coach Hoot Gibson, assistant coach Gerald Bullard, back coach Charles Brown, and line coach Glenn Sears. These men developed a first-team line consisting of Pres Moore, center; Tom Bell and Brent Helmer, guards; and Dick Parker and Charles Hayward, tackles. Guy Anthony and Ross Anthony alternated at quarterback and split end, while Russ Walker and Frank Stone alternated at halfback and end. The two other first-team players were Gary Brown, halfback, and Steve Kirkpatrick, fullback, both of whom made first-team All-Conference. Pres Moore and Dick Parker also gained positions on the first All-Conference team, with Frank Stone and Brent Helmer making the second All-Conference team.

In their 1963-64 season, the Cyclones put forth their best showing in quite a few years. For the past three years, Casady's basketball teams have had bad luck in sustaining a winning season, but this year the Cyclones were definitely a team to be proud of, achieving a season record of 16-7.

Last year Casady placed last in conference play, but this year the Cyclones finished in second place behind St. John's. For the first half of conference play, in Dallas, the Cyclones put down St. Mark's 58-52 and easily thrashed St. Stephen's 53-22.

For the second half of the conference, the Casady team went to Houston. The first game was with Lutheran, whom Casady handed their third defeat, 70-54. The next morning Casady faced the St. John's Rebels for the conference title and lost with a score of 44-47. In the remaining game, Casady defeated Kinkaid 64-62.

The high scoring was due primarily to the shooting ability of Ross Anthony, Jim Putnam, and Ray Smiser, while Putnam and Dick Parker led in rebounding. While scoring many points, the boys also obtained several awards. Ray Smiser was selected for the All-Conference first team, while Ross Anthony and Jim Putnam received honorable mention in the conference. The credit for coaching this good team belongs to Mr. Gerald Bullard, who worked hard with the boys for their impressive record.

SOCCER

Mr. Richard A. Marble

Casady's soccer team of 1963-64 had a new coach, Mr. Marble, who was ably assisted by Mr. Barr. The team earned a 1 win-1 tie-2 loss season. First the team traveled to Dallas to meet a very strong St. Mark's team. Casady lost to St. Mark's, whose team was much faster, in a hard-fought game which ended 4-1. Kent Cohenour played an outstanding game with good support from Jim Robson.

The second conference trip was to Houston, where Kinkaid School was host. Casady, playing in the rain, won the first game, with Lutheran, by a comfortable margin of 7-2. The next morning the Casady team met St. John's on a wet field. This game was the most outstanding one that Casady played during the entire season. St. John's had an excellent team which fought hard to the finish of 2-2, the decision of the referees giving us only a tie. The same afternoon Casady played Kinkaid. Our team lost 3-1 in a game that was played by two tired teams on a muddy field. The game was well fought by both sides, but our team was too tired to play winning soccer. The games that Casady's team played at Houston were by far the best quality soccer they had played all year. The fact that Casady had three players awarded All-Conference standing indicates the caliber of our team. Jim Robson as center, Bob Savage as wing, and Mike Barber as wing were all members of the All-Conference team.

Although the Casady team did not win all of its games, it gained valuable experience for next year. Almost every member of the team will be returning, and we should be able to have a winning season.

The 1963 baseball team continued to play the better teams in the state. The team's record was not quite so good as in past years, but the team should improve a great deal this year. Mr. Charles Brown coached the team, and the boys functioned well under his leadership.

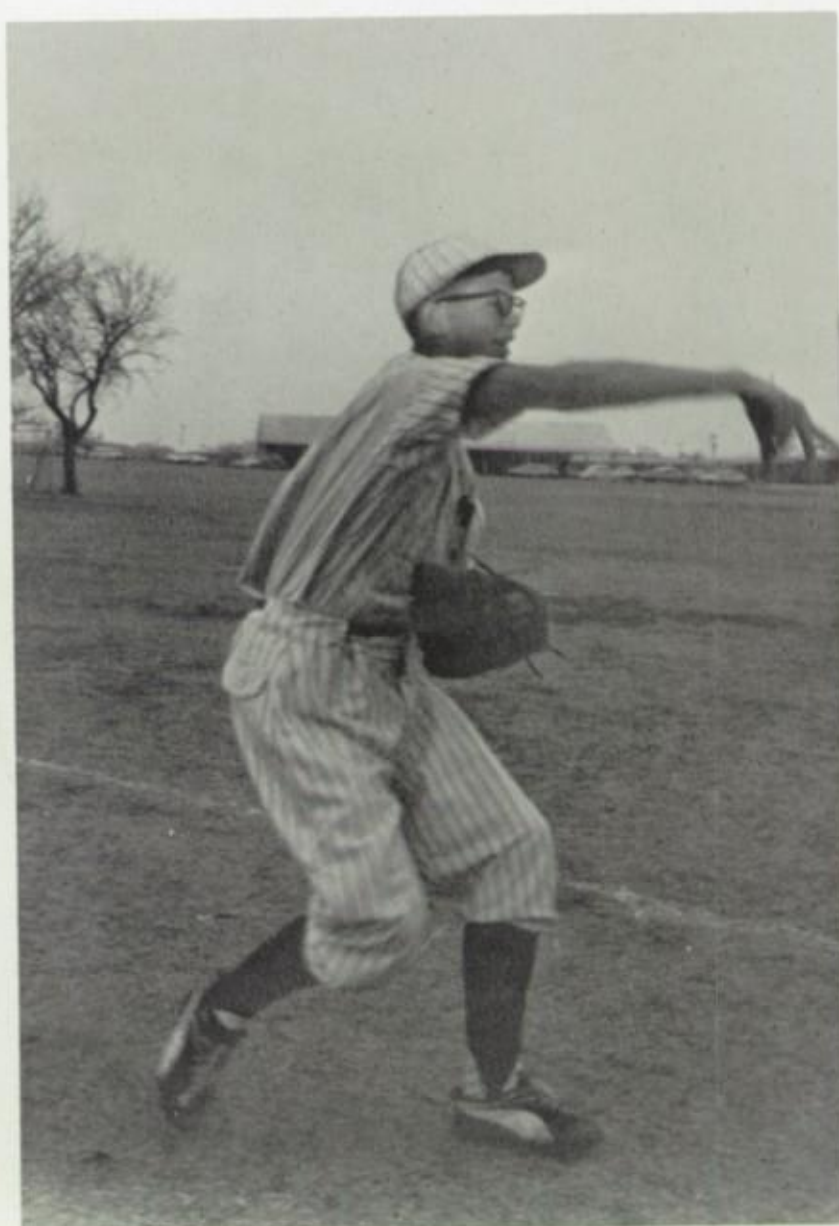

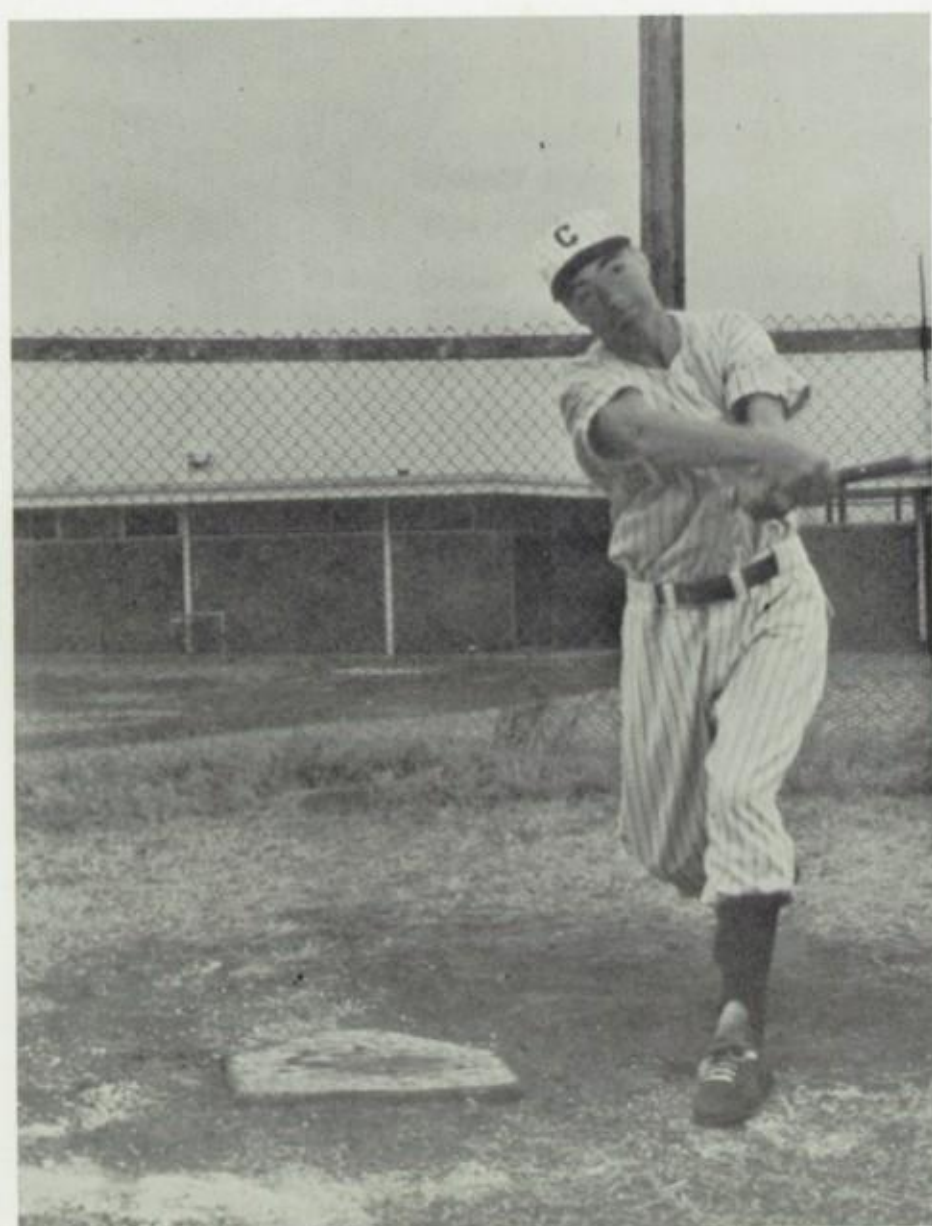

Casady's starting line-up was composed of Dick Flesher, catcher; Ross Anthony, first base; Tom Bell, second base; Gary Brown, short-stop; Brent Helmer, third base; Russ Walker, left field; Cecil Trice, center field; and John Walker, right field. Cress Cresswell was the mainstay of the pitching staff, and he received fine support from the other two pitchers, Bob Green and Charles Hayward.

Casady placed three players on the All-Conference team. They were Ross Anthony, Brent Helmer, and Cecil Trice. Cress Cresswell and Gary Brown received All-Conference honorable mention.

The Cyclones failed to repeat as conference champions last year; however, they should have a fine chance to gain the title this year. Last year's team had no seniors on it, and all of the starters are returning this year.

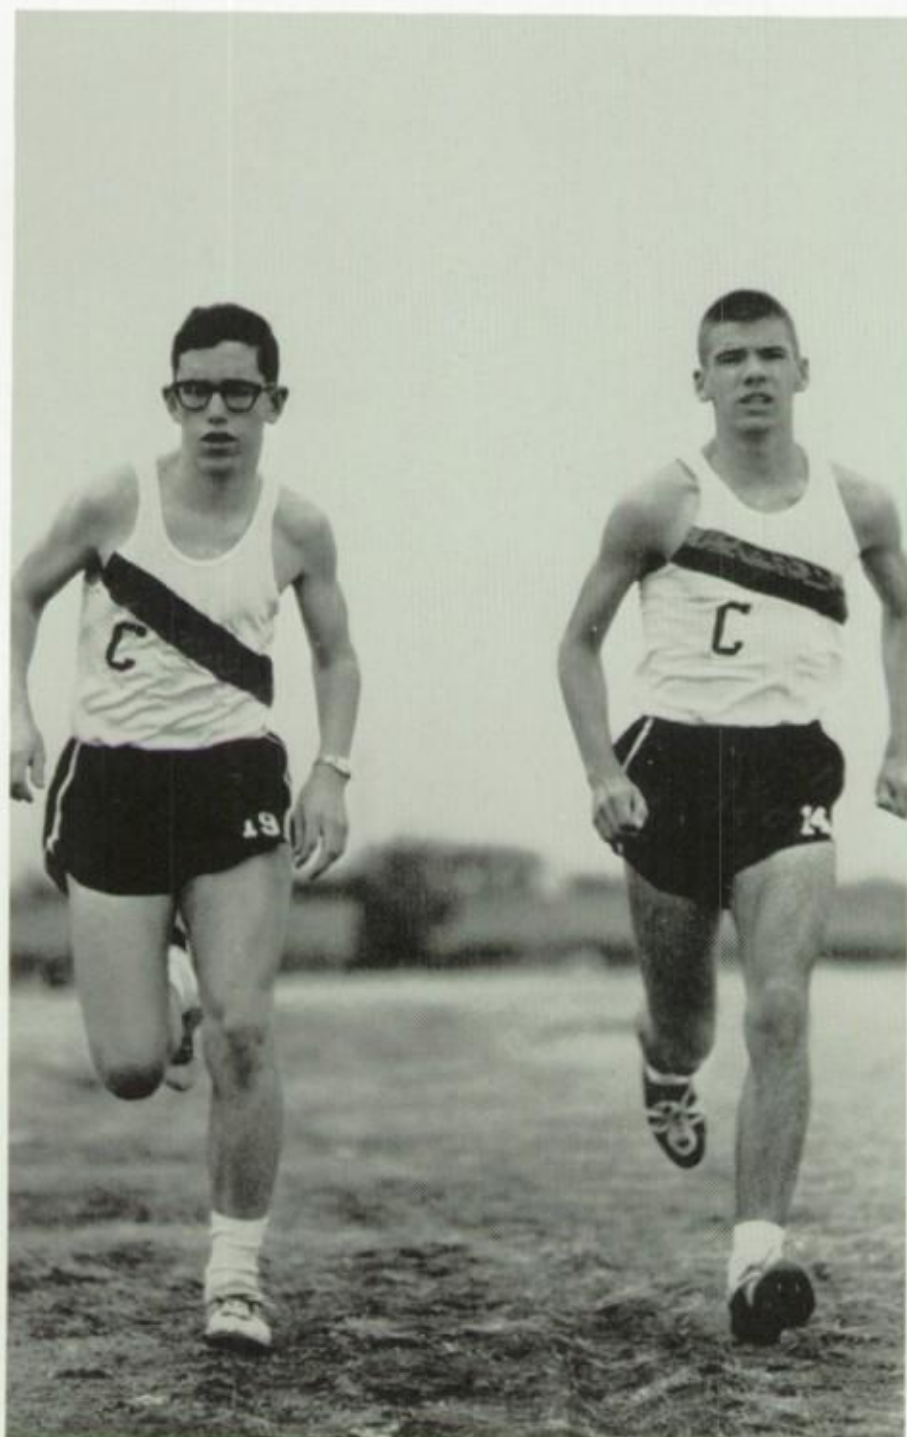

BASEBALL. FIRST ROW: Eff Martin, Bob Green, Ross Anthony, Cecil Trice, Gary Brown. SECOND ROW: Dick Flesher, Chip Hays, Brent Helmer, Steve Kirkpatrick, John Walker.

TRACK

Coach Hoot Gibson

Although it has lost two extremely valuable men in Chris Frederickson and Bob Townley, this year's track team promises to be a very good one. Last year's track team was successful in that it finished second at the conference meet in Houston, losing only to powerful St. Mark's. Although the margin of St. Mark's victory was high, this year's team hopes to decrease this margin and perhaps surpass this powerful St. Mark's team.

Last year's track team succeeded in breaking more than half of the previous school records. The junior-dominated squad was responsible for many of these records. The school record was broken in the mile by Guy Anthony, the 220-yard dash record was broken by Russ Walker, the shot put and discus records were broken by graduate Bob Townley, and the high hurdle record was broken by graduate Chris Frederickson. Also broken was the record for the climactic mile relay by Morris Galloway, Paul Friedman, Frank Stone, and Russ Walker; Stone broke the school's 440-yard dash record at conference with a blazing 51.6 which, due to the extremely keen competition, was only good enough for fourth.

Some new boys will undoubtedly help this year's team along with last year's participants. Ably coached by Mr. Gibson, this year's team promises to be a good one. Due to some injuries incurred during football season, some of the starters may not be ready. If these boys recover and if the team meets expectations, Casady should have an excellent chance for the Southwestern Preparatory Conference championship.

GOLF AND TENNIS

Last year's tennis team enjoyed a fruitful season, and the outstanding team members, John Cochrane and Ray Smiser, returned to lead this year's team in its season. Cochrane, Casady's best tennis player, worked as assistant to the professional at Quail Creek Country Club last summer and has become one of the finest players in the Southwestern Preparatory Conference. Mr. Wright and Mr. McCartney coached the tennis team this year.

In 1963 golf gained importance as a spring sport. Bob Savage and Jim Lisle helped their teammates to make a good start and acquired valuable experience. With these returning starters, Mr. Barr should be able to coach the 1964 team to a successful season.

Preston Moore, the only member of Casady's first cross-country team, competed in the conference cross-country meet in Houston. This year's team should be able to break the school cross-country record of 11:30 and take at least a part of conference honors. Mr. Gibson initiated cross-country as a winter sport and worked extensively with the team.

In the fall of 1964, non-footballers participated in a physical education program consisting of softball, basketball, touch football, swimming, and soccer. Numerous faculty members were in charge of this program, with each participating teacher being in charge of a sport for two weeks.

GIRLS' SPORTS

Miss Cousins, Mrs. Edwards, and Mrs. Fox.

This year Mrs. Edwards, with the help of Mrs. Fox and Miss Cousins, guided the girls' sports program. The girls started this year in softball and played Blue and White games every Tuesday and Thursday. Mrs. Edwards coached the girls' varsity softball team, which played McGuinness and John Marshall.

Softball intramurals were played the last week of the season. The hockey season began November 1. During February the girls traveled to Hockaday to play hockey, basketball, and ping-pong. After the hockey season the girls either played soccer or played basketball or swam. In the spring the girls engaged in badminton, archery, ping-pong, volleyball, tennis, and varsity softball. In May the Hockaday girls came to Casady to compete in softball, volleyball, and basketball.

All these sports keep the girls busy the entire year.

"Quick! Get off my lap! Mr. Hiller is coming."

"Awright, kid. Gimme those Cracker Jacks."

"I'm practicing to be a grinch."

"Really, Mr. Walker. This production is lacking professionalism."

"So it isn't a leather jacket—so what?"

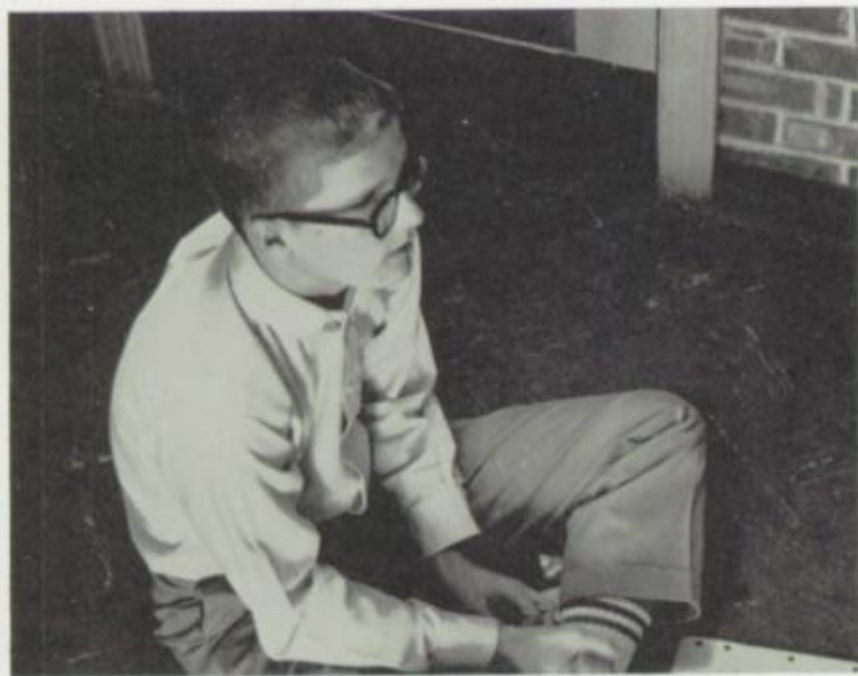

"What d'ya mean they're on strike?"

"Nobody told me it was a formal affair."

"Hmm—dark roots."

"Simon says, 'Thumbs up.' "

"Well, it's not my fault that life's not a bowl of cherries."

MIDDLE SCHOOL

THEODORE BRADLEY
DIRECTOR OF THE MIDDLE DIVISION
Harvard University, B.A.
University of New Hampshire, M.Ed.

Now in his twenty-fifth year of teaching, Mr. Theodore Bradley, a man of individuality and purpose, has made the Casady Middle Division a place of progress and enthusiasm. For the first time, the division is filled to capacity with 252 students. One of the new features about which Mr. Bradley is very enthusiastic is the trend towards a more adaptable curriculum. For example, new seventh and eighth graders, on entering the Middle Division, will not be required to take Latin and French. A new group is being started this year called the Shield Society, an honor society based on service to the school, scholarship, and color cards. One can receive a red shield in the fifth grade, a blue shield in the sixth grade, a silver shield in the seventh grade, and a gold shield in the eighth grade. In the future, there would be an alumni dinner in honor of the members of the Shield Society. For the first time at the Casady Middle Division, there is an orchestra with violins, oboes, cornets, flutes, a bass viol, and a piano. The choir has grown to eighty members, with forty members in the seventh and eighth.

Mr. Bradley feels that this year the Middle Division has the best spirit he has seen for a long time. Looking about the Middle Division campus, one sees the friendly, happy, and hard-working students going about their duties with initiative and enthusiasm. The Casady Middle Division contains a variety of people working hard and showing a strong spirit for the betterment of the community and the individual.

LOWER SCHOOL

BETTIS LAWRENCE
 DIRECTOR OF THE LOWER DIVISION
 University of Oklahoma, B.A.
 University of St. Louis
 University of California, M.A.
 Hartford Theological Seminary
 Oxford University

Mr. Lawrence, a native of Anadarko, Oklahoma, is director of the Casady Lower Division this year. Although he spends most of his time at the Lower Division, Mr. Lawrence teaches an eleventh grade history course and is acting as head of the history department.

Before coming to Casady, Mr. Lawrence was headmaster of St. James' Day School in Texarkana, Texas, where he served for ten years. Most of his previous time was spent teaching medieval history and Latin at Trinity College in Hartford, Connecticut, and at the University of Oklahoma.

Mr. Lawrence hopes to see the Lower and Primary Divisions become a physical part of the main campus in the near future. A grant from the Ford Foundation's Educational Facilities Laboratory has enabled Mr. Lawrence and Mrs. Loeffler, director of the Primary Division, to visit other schools and to consult with architectural firms in trying to determine what would be the most desirable and practical physical plant for Casady's Lower and Primary Divisions. This grant, which is the first of its kind that Casady has received, is an encouraging factor in the overall development of the school.
